

INFUSION IS AN INDISPENSABLE PART FOR THE THERAPY OF PATIENTS WITH ACUTE PANCREATITIS

I.P. Shlapak, D.L. Vishenko, N.V. Titarenko

Summary. The basic principles of the initial management of acute pancreatitis are adequate monitoring of vital signs, fluid replacement, correction of any electrolyte imbalance, nutritional support, and the prevention of local and systemic complications. Maximum fluid replacement is needed to stabilize the cardiovascular system and to prevent further ischemia of abdominal organs.

Key words: acute pancreatitis, early fluid resuscitation.