

SYNDROMIC INFUSION THERAPY IN INTERNIST PRACTICE

V.U. Lishnevskaya

Resume. In the article the questions of endogenous intoxication are examined in doctor internist practice, role of intoxication syndrome in pathogenesis, clinic and outcome of diseases, and also place of infusion therapy in treatment of endogenous intoxication syndrome at therapeutic pathologies. Basic descriptions of infusion preparations which are used with the purpose of desintoxication are given, and also importance of the differentiated going is rotined near the choice of infusion preparation taking into account aims and tasks of therapy.

Key words: intoxication syndrome, endogenous intoxication, infusion therapy.